Wit and humor.

Revolutionary Assecdate. The eccentricity of Gen. Charles Lee was somewhat peculiar. Like his ancestor, Sir Henry Lee, he was very fond of dogs, baying usually not less than a dozen in his kennel or about his person. It was remarked by a writer of the day " that his great foodness for down brought upon him the dielike of the fair seg," for the genera! would permit his canine adherents to follow him to the parlor, the bed-room, and sometimes they might be seen on a chair next his elbow at a table.

He had one dog, a hound, calld "B-vis." This saimal was very sagacious, and there is as great a difference in dogs as in men, educated or uneducated. This four legged brate had been trained to go through many military movements by the General himself, who often declared that Bevis could command a brigade.

It happened on one occasion a review took place in our good city, at the commeacement of the Revolution, when a Colonel by the name of Rizema, commanded a brigade, in consequence of the absence of his superior officer. In going through the military evolutions in the presence of Lee, as commanding officer, he gave some order that was out of place. and which the troops did not seem to understand.

This irritated Lee, old and eccentric as he was, who called Col. Ritzema at once to account. "Sir," said he, " you do not understand military tacties so well as my dog yonder."

"Bit!" replied Ritzems indignantly. " what do you mean, Gen, Lee, by this was remark !"

"I mean what I say," answered Lee " look for a moment. Bevis, go and order that regiment to Present firelocks."

It should be remembered that terms were different in those days in regard to military matters. We say now present arms, order arms, shoulder arms, &c. ; at that time, present firelocks was the word.

Bevis, the dog, looked for a moment at his master, then started off. He took his position in front of the regiment, squatted down dog fashion, and held up his fore pawe Lee at the same time gave the word, Present firelocks. Of course the order was instantly obeyed.

" There, Colonel," said Lee, turning to Ritzems, "I told you that my dog under stood military tacties: what do you think of him !"

The next day Gen. Lee received a challenge from Col. Ritsema, as he most likely expected. It was delivered to him by a Colonel of the same brigade.

" Have I offended Col. Ritsema?" he

" Yes oir, very badly "

" How so ?"

"By making your dog take the com mand of the brigade. You really must

"Oh! yes," said Lee, in a mild ton of voice. " I do recollect the matter now Here, Bevis, Bevis! come forth!" As the four-footed animal rushed in, he patted him on the head and said :

" Bevis, you're a bad fellow, your man ter has been challenged on account of your conduct yesterday ; shall I fight or

The dog looked at the bearer of the challenge, and began to growl.

"Now you see, said Le, " what my dog thinks about the matter. Sav. Bevis, shall I fight (of R sems or stall I pot This officer wants my answer."

At these words, B-vis made a spring towards the bearer of the challenge, which caused the latter to leave the General's premises minus a certain portion of his breeches, to the step of "double quick time."- N Y. Star.

During the summer of 1846, corn being scarce in the upper country, and the of the citizens being hard pressed for bread. having worn threadbare the hospitality of he generous neighbors by his extreme laziness, they thought it an act of charity to bury bim. Accordingly, he was car ried towards the place of interment, and being met by one of the entirens the Allowing conversation took place :

"flallo! what have you there !"

" Poor old Mr. S."

"What are you going to do with him?" " Bury him."

" What ! is he dead ! I hadn't heard of his death."

" No, he is not dead, but he might as well be; he has no corn, and is too lazy to work for any."

" That is too cruel for civilized people. I'll give him two bushels of corn rather than see him buried alive."

Mr. S. raised the cover, and asked in his panal dragging tone,

" I-s i-t s-h-e |-l-e d?"

" No, but you can soon shell it " "Drive on, boye."

Kheumatism, Gout, general Debility, Complaints of the Kidneys, &c. &c., is prepared from the liver of the COD-FISH for medicinal use, expressly for our sales. [Extract from the London Medical Journal.] C. J. B. WILLIAMS, M. D., F.R.S., Professor Medicine in University College, London, consulting physician to the Hospital for Consumption, &c., says; "I have prescribed the Oil in above four bundred cases of tub-realous disease of the Lungs in different stages, which have been under my care the last two years and a half. In the large number of cares 206 out of 231, its use was followed by marked, unequivocal improvement, varying in degree in different cases, from a temporary retardation of the progress of the disease more or less complete restoration to apparent bealth. "The effect of the Cod Liver Oil in most of these cases was very remarkable. Even in a few days the cough was mitigated, the expec oration diminished in quantity and opacity, the night sweats ceased, the pulse became slower, and of better volume, and the appetite, flesh and strength were gradually improved.

"In conclusion I repeat that the pure fresh Oil from the Liver of the Cod is more beneficial in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption than any agent, medicinel dietetic or regimenal, tha has yet been employed." As we have made arrangements to procure the Cod Liver Oil fresh from head quarters, it can now be had chemically

Old Dr. Jacob Townsend THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla. Old Dr. Townsend is now about 70 years of age, and has been been known as the AUTHOR and DINCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL "TOWNSEND SARSAPARILLA." Being poor, he was compelled to limit its manufacture, by which means it has been kept out of market, and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheics, as those persons who had been healed of sore diseases, and saved from death, pre-claimed its wonderful found incapable of degree ration or deterforation.

Unlike young S. P. Townsend's, it improves with ago, and never changes but for the better; because it is prepared on actentific principles by a scientific mon. The highest knowledge of Chemistry, and the latter discoveries of the art, have all been brought into requisition in the manthature of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla rost, it is well known to medical men, contains many medicand properties, and some properties which are insert or useless, and others, which if retained in preparing it for use, produce fermentations and earls, which is injurious to the setum. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so tenses that they entirely evaporate and are lost in the proparation, it they are not preserved by a selectify process, known or by to those experienced in its manufacture. Moreover, those wonder for principles, which fly off in vapor, or as an exhalaton, under heat, are the very examinal madeing properties of the proc, which give not at all its value.

Heaven forbit that we should deal in an article which would hear the most distant resemblance to S. P. Townsend's article.

We wish it understood, because it is the absolute track, that S. P. Townsend's article and old Dr. Jacob Townsend's use single thing in common.

As S. P. Townsend is no doctor, and never was, is no shemist, no pharmaceutist—known so more of medicine or disease than any other common, uncelentific, unprofessional man, what guarantee can the public have that they are reciving a renuine scientific medicine, containing all the virtues of the articles used in preparing it, and which are tocapable of changes which might render them the AGENTS
